Her father deserted her mother for another women, her mother being helpless with two children struggled to bring them up, the farm where she was working paid her less than the normal wages, which prompted her to indulge as a part time sex worker. As her daughter was growing up, she decided to get rid of her daughter by selling her to a rich man to work in his house. The deal was struck, she gave away her daughter but she could not get the money that she wanted from that rich man. So she decided to take her daughter back with the help of a local leader. This local leader happened to be a Christian, who accepted Jesus as his personal savior very recently. It was he who counseled her from the word of God and led her to our village pastor who shared the gospel with her and prevented her from selling her daughter.

She realized that she was a sinner not by her activity but by her birth and that she understood that poverty can be overcome by trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ. This change kept her from getting rid of her daughter and she whole heartedly admitted her daughter at our Home.
